Controllers

ICANN, we as Registry Operator, your Registrar, and eventually your reseller, are joint controllers (or Data Processors where specified) for your data processing that is required to carry out your Domain Name registration, as described in this Section. The main purpose for such processing includes, among others, domain name transfers and trades, resolution of your domain name and making available information via the WHOIS service.

The role of ICANN, a California-based US not-for-profit corporation, is establishing the policies on aspects including the collection and publication of data as well as to ensure that the system is secure, stable and resilient.

You can find more information about ICANN here:

<http://icann.org>

ICANN contractually requires us and your Registrar to process personal data and enforce these contractual obligations, which - in part - are policies established by ICANN's multistakeholder community. ICANN also requires the contracted parties to submit reports regularly.

It is the Registrar's, and/or the resellers', role to offer domain name registrations and potentially other services to Registrants. According to ICANN's requirements, the Registration Data is collected by the Registrar and then transferred to the Registry.

The Registry's role is to maintain a central repository of all domain name registrations and to make domain names resolve via the Domain Name System (DNS). The Registry does not offer domain name registrations directly to registrants.
